

Steve Walton, Ph.D.

Professor in the Practice of Information Systems & Operations Management at Emory University

Professor Walton joined Goizueta Business School in the fall of 1996 after serving on the faculties of North Carolina A&T State University and Baylor University. Steve's efforts in the classroom have been highlighted by eleven teaching awards, including The Emory Williams Distinguished Teaching Award, a university-wide honor, and the Adler Prize for Excellence in Teaching. Before coming to Emory, he also worked for IBM.

His current interests include strategic execution, operational decision making and the impact of leadership on operations outcomes. Steve has published in Journal of Operations Management, European Journal of Operational Research, International Journal of Operations and Production Management, International Journal of Purchasing and Materials Management and the Proceedings of the Decision Sciences Institute. Steve also serves as a reviewer for Decision Sciences, Journal of Operations Management, the Journal of Supply Chain Management and Organization Science.

His consulting clients include Sony, First Data, UPS, Home Depot, Delta Air Lines, Usher's New Look Foundation, SunTrust, Panasonic, McKesson Information Solutions, the Arthur M. Blank Family Office, Siemens Medical Systems, Synovus, and others.

His specializations include

- Strategic execution
- Strategic decision making
- Operational excellence
- Environmental management
- Supply chain management
- Applications of qualitative research methods

Steve earned his B.S. and M.S. degrees in Industrial Management from Clemson University and his Ph.D. in Operations Management from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.