

Jamison M. Day, Ph.D.

Chief Data Scientist at Ecosify, LLC

Dr. Jamison M. Day has researched disaster relief coordination and presented insights at venues including the White House, National Science Foundation, Federal Emergency Management Agency, and U.S. Northern Command.

Academic affiliations have included the University of Denver, Louisiana State University, the University of Houston, and Indiana University. He has written over 15 articles appearing in academic journals and practitioner outlets including Journal of Supply Chain Management and Journal of Business Continuity & Emergency Planning and has convened cross-sector interactions with executives from government, defense, corporate, and non-profit organizations, generating several cross-sector projects.