

Clark Streets

Program Associate

Mr. Clark Streets joined the Institute for Defense and Business in February 2021. As a Program Associate, he assists with planning, design, and delivery of executive education programs for the military and private sector.

These programs include Dense Urban Studies, Cyber Risk Management in the National Security Context, Industry Based Broadening: Information Operations, and Security (Regional) Studies. In addition, he supports the marketing team by organizing virtual panel discussions on highly relevant topics ranging from innovation to national security.

Mr. Streets graduated with Departmental and University Honors from Appalachian State University earning his BS in Political Science. He later earned his MSc in International Migration and Public Policy from the London School of Economics and Political Science. Clark is a fluent Spanish speaker.